Comment Of The Day

GLOBAL POLICE

A GLOBAL police force, the dream of statesmen and the stumbling block of many a grand disarmament scheme is, to the average man, the most likely way to preserve world peace.

The effect of such a partial organization proved itself during the Korean War when the United Nations committed itself to raise a force before a Russian veto could be entered.

Few, however, believe that Russia or China will ever agree to the establishment of veto-free machinery for keeping peace in a world stripped of national armies. Without this machinery, the Western allies are firm that there can be no full-scale disarmament, otherwise they believe Mr. Khrushchev's total disarmament plan could be a fatal trap for nations on the borders of the Communist dominated areas.

Figures

WHY is there any security threat in the disarmed and internationally inspected world? Mr. Khrushchev proposed? The answer lies in population figures which so far have been given little publicity in the debate.

Internal security forces — local, national police and constabulary — would have to be permitted each nation under any disarmament plan while a nation's size and the measure of how big an international security force it would be allowed.

A basis

IF the allowable quota for internal security forces were based on one, two or three men per 1,000 head of China's population, for example, it would mean a permissible force of 650,000 to 1,300,000 or more organized, trained potential troops equipped with whatever arms the disarmament agreement allowed.

Even assuming the best inspection enforcement agency was available there would be nothing to stop a Communist government releasing a percentage of these forces to "restore order" or go to the aid of "oppressed and persecuted minorities" in neighbouring countries.

Similar

NEIGHBOURS of other big countries, Communist or otherwise, would live in the shadow of similar, though much less awesome threats.

The threat alone would be a powerful political tool in the big nations' relations with small ones in the idealised world without the atom bomb or military alliances.

Here the dream comes to grim reality — not much, if any, prettier than today's tense atmosphere. The reality demands an international armed force stronger than any nation or combination of nations could mount against it and be able to act when the threat arises.

If the world is ever to reach the stage when arms are to be beaten into ploughshares, there will have to be a foolproof assurance that an international policeman wields the big stick.

Ceylon election results

Colombo, Mar. 20. The United National Party amassed fifty seats in the 157-member Lower House of Parliament in its election victory, final results showed yesterday.

The caretaker government of Mr. Willem de Silva, who earlier submitted its resignation. In the old Parliament, the Sri Lanka Freedom party held most seats.

The final state of the parties was:

United National Party	50
Sri Lanka Freedom Party	46
Tamil Federal Party	15
Mahajana Eksath Peramuna	10
Lanka Sama Samajam	10
Democratic Party	4
Communist Party	3
Independents and others	13

Apart from Mr. De Silva, four ministers of the caretaker government lost their seats. They were Sir Rukh Fared, former Minister of Commerce and Trade, Mr. Stanley De Zoysa, Home Affairs and Health, Mr. R. E. Jayatilaka, Transport, Power and Works and Mr. M. M. Mustapha, Finance and Planning.

Mr. Dudley Senanayake, a former Prime Minister, heads the victorious United National Party. But as matters stand now, none of the major parties has enough representation to secure a workable majority alone. The question of who would form the next ministry was still undecided at this point.

There was some talk that the Freedom Party head, Mr. Charles De Silva, might try to form a government. — Reuters and UPI.

Insurance paid to bank to cover robbery

By CHINA MAIL REPORTER

An insurance company paid the Kwong On Bank Ltd., $200,000 on Saturday as a sequel to the robbery of $405,000 at the door of the bank last Wednesday.

Mr. T. S. Tsao, Local Manager of the South British Insurance Co., Ltd., handed over a cheque for $200,000 to Mr. P. Y. Tang, Assistant General Manager of the Kwong On Bank Ltd., at 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Mr. Tsao said this sort of risk was covered by "cash in transit policy" which nearly every bank takes out by paying an annual premium of less than one per cent of the amount covered.

$200,000 LIMIT
"Usually we limit the amount of cash transit for each sending," Kwong On Bank was limited to $200,000 for each sending," he said.

"The bank is covered so long as it sticks to the limit on each sending, no matter how many sendings it makes during the covered period."

The sentence was imposed by Central Magistrate, Mr. I. T. Morris on Cheung Tan, 22 of 34 Bonham Strand West. He was also disqualified from holding a driving licence for six months.

He admitted he did not stop his car after knocking down a man in Lyndhurst Terrace shortly after midnight on March 18.

Sub-inspector M. Atkinson, prosecuting, said the injured man noted the number of the defendant's car after having been knocked down. He took a "short cut" and ran to the junction of Hollywood Road and Cochran Street where he saw the same car again. He shouted to the defendant to stop but he did not do so. A report was made to the police.

Traced
The vehicle was subsequently traced and the owner, Cheung Yik-ling, stated that the car had been driven by his son, the defendant.

Sub-inspector Atkinson said the complainant suffered from compound fractures of the right shinbone and lacerations of the right side of his head.

Mr. Arthur Lui, of Messrs Lo and Lo, representing the defendant, said his client did not realise that the man was so badly injured after being knocked down.

Mr. Morris said in his judgment that there could be no doubt that offenders of this type were a real menace to the community and exemplary punishment must follow the conviction.

"Countries, people nowadays have experienced the grief and anxiety that the irresponsible drivers of motor vehicles can cause. More and more motorists have come to know the sudden lurking perils that may lead to disaster."

"All this is bringing home to everyone the stark fact that the danger on the roads is not only something to be read about in statistics; not just something that affects 'the other fellow.' It is a matter of grave personal concern to each one of us," Mr. Morris said.

Tokyo, Mar. 21. The Central Meteorological Observatory said this morning tidal waves as high as five feet swept the northern Pacific coast of Japan as a result of an earthquake which shook northern and central Japan shortly after 2 a.m. on Sunday.

There was no immediate report of casualties or damage. The observatory said the epicentre was off the Sauriku area about 20 miles underground. Seismographs recorded the intensity of four in a one to seven scale or six to seven in the Mercalli scale, in Amori, Hachinohe and Morioka cities, northern Japan.

Hardest hit was Morioka, where hundreds of people there fled from their homes into the open.

Seventeen survive air crash

Bogota, Mar. 20. Seventeen survivors — all women — have been rescued from the crash of a twin-engine Colombian airliner, authorities reported on Sunday.

The plane, with 46 persons aboard, crashed during a rainstorm on Saturday on a flight from the Colombian vacation resort island of San Andres to Medellin.

First reports indicated there were only seven survivors. The C-46 airliner of the Societad Aeronautica De Medellin (SAM), was carrying vacationers, including 33 women, home from a holiday on the island, off the eastern coast of Nicaragua.

At 4:23 p.m. on Saturday the pilot, Captain Mario Botero, radioed that he was having trouble with one engine. Five minutes later he reported that both engines had failed and that he was trying to reach the airport at Planecarian in the state of Cordoba. — AP.

This was revealed today by Mr. H. D. M. Barton, Chairman of the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Co Ltd at today's annual meeting.

Mr. Barton said that in his annual report he had referred to the growing need for more hotel accommodation in Victoria and said the company was exploring the possibilities of including first-class hotel accommodation in the proposed redevelopment of the Queen's Building site.

"Since then, the directors have made proposals to the Colonial Hotel Development Co with a view to participating with them in the building of a first-class 500-bedroom hotel on the Murray Parade Ground site, if that company should be the successful bidder for this site when it goes up to public auction on May 30."

OFFICE SPACE
The decision on whether or not to include hotel accommodation in the Queen's Building project must therefore await the outcome of these negotiations.

Mr. Barton also told the meeting about the big demand for office space in the Colony. He said that in the new Union House, phase 1, which would be ready by the end of May this year, all space had been allocated and "we have on the waiting list further applicants for at least as much office accommodation as the Union House."

Mr. Barton told the meeting that the company proposed to go ahead with the redevelopment of phase two of the new Union House immediately after phase 1 had been finished. This was expected to be completed by the Autumn of 1962.

MANY APPLICANTS
"It is clear, however, that even with the completion of Union House there will still be many applicants to whom we shall be unable to offer any accommodation."

"In view of the continuing demand for office premises in our buildings, the directors are now studying plans for the earliest possible redevelopment of the Queen's buildings."

Mr. Barton said many tenants of Hongkong Land Investment & Agency Company property continued to enjoy the benefit of the unrealistic controlled rents and preferential treatment to which they were entitled under the Landlord and Tenant Ordinance.

Whatever the arguments may be for and against the Ordinance in its wider aspects, Mr. Barton said "surely with the greatly increased office accommodation now available there can be no possible justification for continuing rent control in any form in the Central area of Victoria."

Mr. Barton revealed that the Agency Department had grown during the year and was now collecting more than $9 million a year in rent and other charges from properties placed under its management.

The report also revealed that the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Company had allocated $50,000 to the World Refugee Year fund.

The report and accounts were adopted.

Mr. H. R. Field and Mr. B. C. Field were re-elected directors.

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co were reappointed auditors.

At an extraordinary general meeting held immediately afterwards, a resolution authorising the issue of 200,000 bonus shares in the proportion of two for every 27 held, was passed.

'Lead' to society killing

New York, Mar. 21. Police said tonight they are working on a "good lead" in their search for the killer or killers of three Chicago socialists.

The "lead" is a description of a young man reportedly seen talking to the three ill-fated Chicago women in Starved Rock State Park. Their battered bodies were found last Wednesday in a canyon.

The report, furnished by an unidentified "cat" source, was checked under the Attorney General's questioning, State Police said.

"It is a good lead," he commented.

The car dealer reported driving past the women about 2 p.m. last Monday on State Route 178, and that he saw a late model car back up to where they stood. From it, the dealer said, emerged a young man who walked over and spoke to them. He said he believed there was a second man who remained in the car.

The incident was witnessed about half an hour before the time of death subsequently estimated by investigators. — AP.

Pipeline to China: work starts

Government today confirmed that survey work and "some preliminary engineering works" have started in connection with a pipeline which could bring water from the Chinese Shumchun reservoir to the Colony's reservoir system.

Earlier a leading Chinese newspaper had reported the start of this work which it said would cost a total of $3 million and take two years to complete.

The Chinese newspaper said 20 miles of piping would be involved.

A Government statement released just after noon today said:

In the New Territories, survey work and some preliminary engineering works are in progress on the route for a pipeline which could bring water from the new reservoir at Shumchun to Tai Lam. This water would be available.

This work will not, in any event, be wasted as it could be incorporated into other local schemes that are planned.

It is understood, however, that the cost of the project will be much more than $3 million. A reliable estimate of the cost is $20 million.

But officials say they have no idea how long the project will take.

SURPLUS

The new Chinese reservoir on the Shumchun River is said to have a surplus capacity to supply a city of three million people with water for seven months.

The Peking People's Daily has clearly indicated that when completed the reservoir could supply Hongkong, south of Shumchun.

The Governor, Sir Robert Black, told Legislative Council in his annual review on February 24 that Hongkong hoped to get a supply of water from the reservoir.

Shumchun Reservoir has a total capacity of about 9,000 million gallons, or as big as Shek Pik and Tai Lam Chung reservoirs combined.

Weekly survey of American economy

BOOM BEGINS TO DWINDLE

Industrial output shows a decline

New York, Mar. 20.

There were more signs this past week that the U. S. economy is levelling off again.

Two key statistical yardsticks confirmed the trend: The index of industrial output which for the month of February showed an actual drop and the nation's income which failed to rise.

Thus the upward swing of the economy, which started last December with boom-like proportions following the settlement of the steel strike, came to a stop.

The political implications of the economic picture were for the first time being discussed in print. Some authoritative trade magazines even indicated there might be a slowdown in general industrial activity at a time that would be inauspicious indeed—the November presidential election.

'Very healthy'

The reading of the industrial production and personal savings indices for February was not lost on President Eisenhower who at mid-week made it a point to term the state of the economy "very healthy."

He said some very bold predictions had been made at the start of the year as "some people always want a recovery curve mounting more steeply." His advisers, he said, have always counseled to "take a moderate target."

Starting for the first time to use a new base for its industrial production index—that of the 1957 production average equalling 100—the Federal Reserve Board said last month's production was at 110 per cent. This compared with 111 per cent in January, 109 in December and 102 in February a year ago.

Previously the Federal Reserve Board used the 1947-49 average as the basis of its industrial output index.

Based on the new index, the January output was originally estimated at 112 per cent. The figure was revised downward this past week to 111. Based on the old index, which the Federal Reserve Board also used for comparison purposes, the February output reads at 107 per cent, one point below the revised January reading and 12 points above February 1959.

Lower production

Lower production of cars, appliances and other consumer goods was cited as responsible for the drop. Production of raw materials showed little decline from the month before.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said personal income in February was maintained at an annual rate of $392 billion. This was just a shade over January's rate of $392.8 billion but well above the $377 billion achieved in February last year.

Wages and salaries increased at an annual rate of $268.5 billion in February, up $700 million from the month before. Most of the gain occurred in sales and services, however, while manufacturing payrolls were reduced by $300 million because of less overtime pay received by car workers.

Keyed to the car production pattern, the nation's steel output has been dropping imperceptibly over the past weeks. Last week's operations were reported at 92.9 per cent of capacity with 2,047,000 ingots. Even as it is, the steel industry was headed for a new record this first quarter. The estimated output for the Jan./Mar. period is 34,700,000 tons, nearly a million more than was poured in the previous best quarter, the April-June period last year just before the strike. The expected rate of operations in the second quarter will be somewhere between 90 and 95 per cent. Despite cutbacks from the automotive customers, near capacity production through June, sheet producers tried to anticipate Detroit cutbacks by booking all the business they could get.

The steel mills produced 11,119,000 tons in February, a record for that month, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported.

This compared with 12,049,404 tons in January, which was a record for any month, and with 9,602,938 tons in February 1959. The average operating rate of the mills in February was 94.2 per cent of capacity, compared with 95.5 per cent during January.

Meanwhile, the steel scrap market, which over the past weeks has registered drops of as much as $7 a ton, hoped for signs of firming following an order from Japan for more than half a million tons of steelmaking scrap for delivery in the second quarter. Last week the Prime grade of heavy melting scrap dropped another 67 cents to $34.33 a gross ton.

The key economic factor—car production—recovered from the blows of the late winter snowstorms but still hovered around the 150,000-a-week mark. Production last week totalled 150,854 units compared with the previous week's 138,513. The auto industry apparently does not intend to return to its 175,000 unit-a-week pace with which it started the year, unless there are signs that current record high inventories of new cars are being disposed of at a faster rate.—UPI.

London succeeds in strong recovery bid

London, Mar. 20.

Share prices strode ahead this past week in a strong recovery that lifted the Financial Times index 14.7 points to 322.6 and 16.5 points above the year's low.

The buying wave found the market short of good class stock and dealers raised prices. The institutions moved in on issues which had recently fallen back and the public was also in the field, encouraged by the stream of excellent company news.

The volume of buying for the new account, starting Monday, showed some buyers were not being held back on tight budget fears. Wall Street's better sentiment helped the tone. Some of the lesser known shares scored good rises along with the leaders. Steels were in demand and engineering were wanted with brewerries, tobaccos, chemicals, motors and selected textiles.

BONDS QUIET

The plus signs, however, did not extend to Government bonds which went through a quiet week. Consols 2 1/2 per cent dipped 3/4 to £47 and War Loan 3 1/2 per cent lost 3/4 to close at £82 11/16.

Foreign bonds stayed lifeless but Greek 7 per cent managed a 1-point gain on the week to £39 and the 5 per cent of 1928 rose 3/4 to end at £32 1/2. German Dawes 5 per cent went a fraction better.

Dollar stocks had mixed days but Friday's cheerful close gave the leaders rises on the week. U.S. Steel were up 5 1/2 points, Shell Oil four points, Chrysler General Motors and Standard Oil were each 2 1/2 points better. International Nickels were 5 1/2 over the week.

Salts from the continent ceased and Cape buyers moved in and found support from London. A minor drift started Friday in quieter markets but prices ended steadier. Diamonds regained some lost ground and De Beers recovered by five shillings 7 1/2 pence to 175s 7/4d. Copper tended dull but time made a good showing across the week.

Oils made a come back with all the leaders scoring useful gains, the market ending on a cheerful note in advance of imminent company news. Rubbers improved on good investment buying. Teas went firmer and were often better where changed.—UPI.

Exchange rates

Business was done in the local unofficial exchange market this morning at the following rates: U.S. dollars (per £1) 6/7 1/2 Sterling notes (per £1) 12/5 1/2 Australian notes (per £1) 12/5 1/2 Indonesian rupiah (per 100) 2/00 Singapore dollars (per 100) 1/21

NY market made good gains during the week

New York, Mar. 20.

Stocks made best gains in the quietest trading since October 16, during the past week.

At the week's close, the Dow-Jones industrial average was at 616.42 up 10.59 points on the week, railroad 145.44 up 3.27; utility 67.44 up 1.10 and the 65-stock composite 204.20 up 3.28 points.

Sales for the week amounted to a mere 12,948,300 shares, against 15,080,044 in the previous week and 13,543,108 in 1959. The average each day amounted to 2,589,660 shares, against 3,108,012 and 2,308,021 shares respectively in the previous periods.

Car sales in the first third of March were off seven per cent per cent from a year ago. What bothered the traders was the inventory of new cars above a million to a new high. Car production rose on the week and was well above a year ago.

PRICE RISE

Wheeling steel predicted that a price rise in steel eventually would have to be made. Inland Steel looked for a record year in profits. Steel production slipped back two full percentage points. Wall Street, however, looks for the final figures for the quarter on steel output to set a new record high.

Oil companies said their recent cutbacks in refining will bring a better inventory position. Some oils developed activity during the week.

Unemployment fell below four million during February. Employment set a new February high. This situation was seen as highly favourable.

Electricity output set a new six-week high. Housing starts for February ran at a rate of 1,115,000 units, off eight per cent from the January rate which in turn was down nine per cent from December.

What worries Wall Street is the market's inability to generate volume on advances. The fact that volume is light on declines is regarded as favourable. Until a bigger volume on the upside develops market men hold the list on the defensive.

OIL SHARES

Strength in oil shares was a feature of the week. Gains in the group ranged to more than three points in Tuxaco and Shell Oil. Richfield was up nearly three. Kerr-McGee up four and Royal Dutch two. Standard Oil (NJ) gained a point.

U.S. Steel rose 2 1/2 in the week and Youngstown Sheet gained 3 1/4. Bethlehem eased slightly. Chemicals had gains ranging 3 1/4 in Union Carbide and four in Eastman Kodak. Procter & Gamble and International Paper rose more than three each in their respective divisions.

American Motors topped the list in activity with a turnover of 161,800 shares, closing the week at 22 1/2 off 1/4 point. Universal Oil Product, Standard Oil (NJ) Studebaker-Packard and four in Eastman Kodak. Musical Industries and Motorola followed in that order and all showed gains of fractions to three points.—UPI.

EX-MAU MAU THUGS BELIEVED BEHIND KENYA VIOLENCE

Nairobi, Mar. 20. Toughest thugs now moving around Kenya following the end of the emergency and the lifting of movement controls were presenting "a particularly difficult security position," the Governor, Sir Patrick Renison, was today reported as saying.

In a weekend speech, Renison here told tribal chiefs at Gallego, in the Fort Hall district, that if work could be found for more people there would be less toughness and thuggery. But it was not easy to find work to occupy all the unemployed.

He also referred to the fears of chiefs and other government officers of the attitude to them of African nationalist leaders. He said that by the past the best way to become a great political nationalist leader was to abuse the chiefs, headmen, administration and departments and do everything possible to obstruct them.

The present African leaders might not be returned at the next election, but those who were now representatives of the people realised they were going to need the chiefs and other officers.

Widow of lawyer in 'Dreyfus case' dies

Melun, France, Mar. 20. Madame Isabelle Lazare, widow of the lawyer who defended Captain Alfred Dreyfus in the famous "Dreyfus Case" of the nineteenth century, died today in Melun at the age of 94.

Madame Lazare, who spent the last years of her life in a retirement home near Melun, retained in her old age a clear memory of the controversial case and the leading part played in it by her husband, Bernard Lazare.

The case centred around army Captain Alfred Dreyfus, who, in 1894, was convicted of espionage on the basis of a similarity of handwriting. Dreyfus was imprisoned on Devil's Island. When new evidence was turned up to support his claim of innocence, however, War Ministry officials refused to reconsider the case, which soon became the object of a public campaign with political overtones.

SUCCESSFUL

Lawyer Lazare and his wife took up the cause of Captain Dreyfus and saw it through to a successful conclusion.

In 1899 Dreyfus' case was reviewed and the sentence of life imprisonment was reduced to ten years. Then he was pardoned. At last in 1906 a court of appeals established his innocence.

Before his death, Dreyfus was made an officer of the "Legion of Honour."—AFP.

Western music goes out

Djakarta, Mar. 20. The Surabaya studios of Radio Indonesia have ceased broadcasting western popular music in request sessions, Djakarta newspapers reported.

Indonesian songs with a "rock and roll" rhythm are also being dropped. The studio chief, Mr. R. M. Sachlan, said western light classics would replace the popular number. The light classics were considered most acceptable for Indonesian listeners.—Reuters.

Billy Wallace is leaving London, looking for farm

By WILLIAM HICKEY

London, Mar. 20. NOW that Princess Margaret's future is happily settled, I hear some sad news from her most constant friend Mr. Billy Wallace. He has resigned his job with a West End airways company and is to leave London. Ill-health—a kidney complaint—has dogged him for years. Now he has decided that he would be better off in the country.

He proposes to buy a farm and settle quietly away from London. And as he leaves and the Princess prepares for marriage, I feel we are seeing the final dissolution of that oddly assorted and heady crowd of young people who for 10 years we have known affectionately as "the Princess Margaret Set."

From his Mayfair home Mr. Wallace, who has been the doyen of them all, told me: "For the first time I am absolutely cured of my illness."

"But I have been ill for so long that I have no reserves left and I feel I should live in the country."

"I have kept my plans secret—and my resignation—because people might say, 'Ah, there goes the disappointed lover. But of course, as you know, that is not true."

set. The names that popped up as escorts to this theatre and that dance? Most of them today are married.

Like the Earl of Dalketh (married 1933), Viscount Hambleden and Mark Bonham-Carter (married 1935), Lord Forrester, Peter Ward, Christopher Ward, and Colin Tennant—all married in 1939.

Constant

Each marriage was a step in the dissolution. But Mr. Wallace was the most constant escort of all. He was at Balmoral for Princess Margaret's 21st birthday party. He was often at Sandringham with the family. He used to drive the Princess in a red sports car.

Among the witty young men who made up the set he was the witliest. He tells me we shall still be seeing him occasionally in town. "My mother has a house in town. I have a bedroom there. But I could not possibly afford to keep two houses going myself."

Wendy Lewis has made it. The 18-year-old Liverpool hairdresser plodded into Land's End 17 days 7 hours and 43 minutes after leaving John O'Groats. She had done the tramp before. But now she cut seven days off her original time and collected £1,000. The welcome was fantastic. A cheering crowd of 25,000 people went mad. Billy Bullin stepped down from the platform and walked forward to meet her with the cheque for £1,000 in his hand—the prize for the first woman home in the mass marathon. Picture shows Wendy Lewis at the end of the road—a smile and a £1,000 cheque.—Express Photo.

Huge stock of whisky destroyed

Glasgow, Mar. 20. A dock fire here today destroyed an estimated £1½ million worth of whisky and sisal, awaiting shipment to the United States.

More than 50,000 cases of whisky burned as flames from all parts of the city fought flames hundreds of feet high. —and my resignation—because people might say, 'Ah, there goes the disappointed lover. But of course, as you know, that is not true."

The whisky was due to be shipped this week in the United States liner's American Forwarder (8,228 tons). —Reuters.

Plane's door falls in backyard

New York, Mar. 20. Trans World Airlines disclosed today that a 25-lb door ripped off one of its Boeing 707 jetliners and crashed into a Long Island backyard.

The incident occurred on Saturday. For a time, TWA thought it had a mystery on its hands.

Shortly after the big jet arrived in Los Angeles with more than 100 persons aboard at midnight last night mechanics discovered a 30-lb square aluminum door to the plane's air conditioning system was missing.

Shortly after the plane took off from Idlewild last night, Mr. and Mrs. Gleason felt their house vibrate.

A CRACK

"Right after that we heard a crack like a plane breaking the sound barrier as something hit the ground in the backyard about 15 feet from the rear of the house," Mr. Gleason said.

"My wife was hysterical. I grabbed a flashlight and went out to take a look. I saw this piece of metal but it was dark and couldn't make out what it was."

"This morning, after going to church, I took another look at it and saw the marking TWA 707 on the inside of it. It was then I realised it was from a plane, so I immediately called the Federal Aviation Agency and the police."

Mr. Gleason said the door knocked four slates from the roof of his two-story house. Then it fell to the ground.—UPI.

U.S. explorer disappears under the sea

Marseille, Mar. 20. Conrad Limbaugh, an American biologist and underwater explorer, disappeared today while swimming in an underground river which empties into the Mediterranean.

Limbaugh, 38, dived with three other underwater experts to study the Port Miro River. The other three came to the surface about 4 p.m. At that time Limbaugh had an oxygen reserve of about 40 minutes, plus an emergency supply good for 16 minutes. His companions alerted authorities when Limbaugh had not appeared at 6 p.m.

The Port Miro River empties into the Mediterranean below the water's surface. The river branches into a "Y" about 50 yards before emptying into the sea. One of the branches is the fresh water outlet from its underground source. The other carries salt water and its origins have never been explored.

His companions believed that Limbaugh may have ventured into the salt water branch. They said that if he had been in the fresh water channel he would have been carried out to the river's mouth by the current.—AP.

He said "nobody tried to marry me off" to any of the eligible princesses at the recent princesses ball he attended here.—UPI.

The day he had his shins kicked....

London, Mar. 20. MR. SOMERSET MAUGHAM, the 88-year-old storyteller, returned to his Riviera home, La Mauresque, at St Jean, Cap-Ferrat, after an 80,000-mile sentimental journey in the Far East, to be greeted by his pet canary.

So let the storyteller take over:—

It is so good to be back in my old clothes. Wearing these has been my dream for the last few weeks of my trip home.

The one rule I made before setting out on this trip was that I would buy nothing. I broke it badly. I collected the beautiful bronzes in Bangkok and slits in Japan.

I thought at one time that it might be my last chance to see so many places and things that had excited me in my youth. But now that I am back I have decided to travel again... to keep travelling as long as I can.

How lovely it was to walk through my garden. The first thing I did was to pluck an avocado pear from my tree. I believe it is the only avocado tree in Europe.

I never would have believed that so many Orientals either knew or cared about me. Just imagine—autograph hunters among the monkeys in the ruins of Angkor Wat in Cambodia.

People I came by the hundreds to meet me whenever I arrived. The most impressive welcome was in Japan.

I didn't get to the South Seas... maybe some other time.

A shock

In Tokyo I had the greatest shock, although it was a terribly flattering surprise when I learned that the Japanese are taught English with my books.

They have no choice in school. They simply must read them. I told them that I hoped that some of them had also enjoyed them.

It was also in Tokyo that I had the worst and, at the same time, most flattering reception. A large book store was to have a cocktail party for me. At first they told me about 50 people would come.

Just before the party they asked if they could increase the list to 300.

Four thousand seven hundred people gate-crashed the party. It was a good-natured riot. I got kicked in the shins and bumped about quite badly.

But not half as badly as the British Ambassador Sir Oscar Mordaunt, poor chap. He was knocked down.

Champagne

I celebrated my 88th birthday in Bangkok with a bottle of champagne. That's all.

I started getting dicky for my home—where I have spent the last 32 years of my life—while I was on the French boat coming here.

It was a very, very slow boat although quite comfortable. I was reminded of what Michael Arlen said about French boats: "I always travel on them, because if there is any danger there is none of this women-and-children-first nonsense."

In October, Mr. Maugham will be coming to London. And after that? Another world trip, he says.

Treasure trove

HOARD OF SILVER COINS

London, Mar. 20. Twelfth-century English silver coins described as the biggest hoard ever discovered in England have been declared treasure trove at an inquest at Mantwich, Cheshire.

The hoard was discovered by workmen digging a drain at a dairy at Newhall, near Mantwich, in 1939. Three of the men kept 97 coins, the rest—there were about 2,000 in an old rotted bed—lie buried beneath a store room.

The coroner in charge of the inquest, Mr. A. L. Culey, said the possibility of recovering them was extremely remote. One of the workmen, Clement Thomas, who kept 44 coins, thinking they were tags used on sacks, said their value became known when his 12-year-old daughter took some coins to show her headmaster.

Frederick Thompson, curator of the Grosvenor Museum, Chester, said that the current market value was about 10 shillings each, depending on condition and rarity.

It is the practice of the Crown, if coins are declared treasure trove, to compensate the finder at the current market value.

The jury found that the coins had been intentionally hidden, that the men had not deliberately concealed their finds, and that the owner was unknown. Therefore, the coins were treasure trove.—China Mail Special.

Northern Cameroons Administrator

London, Mar. 20. Sir Percy Wyn-Harris is to be administrator of the Northern Cameroons when the territory is constitutionally separated from the Federation of Nigeria on October 1, the Colonial Office announced today.

The announcement said he will be responsible—under the Colonial Secretary Mr. Iain Macleod—both for the administration of the Northern Cameroons and for organising the plebiscite which the United Nations have recommended should be held there not later than March 1961.

This plebiscite will decide whether the territory wishes its permanent future to lie with Nigeria or with the neighbouring Republic of the Cameroons.—China Mail Special.

10,000 coronary thrombosis deaths

Edinburgh, Mar. 20. The number of deaths from coronary thrombosis in Scotland last year topped the 10,000 mark for the first time.

Mr. A. B. Taylor, Registrar-General for Scotland, said at a press conference that last year 10,088 people died of coronary thrombosis, compared with 9,023 in 1958.

He estimated the population of Scotland at the end of last year at 5,202,800, 16,000 more than at the end of 1958.—China Mail Special.

Speeding up London traffic

London, Mar. 20. The London County Council has accepted in principle a £3 million tender for road and tunnelling work designed to "ease traffic circulation at two of London's busiest points—Marble Arch and Hyde Park Corner—it was announced today.

Work will begin on May 1 on the new scheme, which involves a four-lane underpass from Piccadilly to Knightsbridge, the widening of Park Lane, construction of several roundabouts and 15 pedestrian subways.

Meanwhile a tender of nearly £4 million has been accepted for work on duplication of the Blackwall Tunnel underneath the Thames in East London.

The work, expected to take three and a half years, comprises construction of 2,850 feet of east-west lined tunnel.—China Mail Special.

Personal contact

Jerome Kern left 75 unpublished songs

New York, Mar. 20. Jerome Kern, whose popular music kept the world singing and dancing in the 20's and 30's left a legacy of 75 unpublished songs, Broadway producer Cheryl Crawford disclosed last night.

The Fifth Army, which included units from Australia, Canada and South Africa, retreated when the Germans launched their last major offensive in France on March 21, 1918.

The troops were outnumbered four to one and thick fog made the attack even more deadly. But the reasons behind the retreat were not fully appreciated in Britain and General Gough was relieved of his command.

Vindicated

He and his Army were vindicated 19 years later by Mr. Lloyd George, who had been Prime Minister at the time of the battle.

"Facts revealed since that date make it clear that whoever was accountable for the disaster, he (General Gough) was not," Mr. Lloyd George wrote in 1937.

Mr. Lloyd George also paid public tribute to the effectiveness of the Fifth Army's gallant rearguard action, which enabled reinforcements to be brought up.

Black mist

Wolfson gift to Old Vic

London, Mar. 21. A gift of £10,500 to London's Old Vic theatre from the Isaac Wolfson Foundation is announced today.

It is to enable the Old Vic governors to buy the freehold of the Old Vic's new annex, built two years ago to house all the theatre's technical departments.

The annex is the most up-to-date building of its kind in the country.

Mr. Wolfson is chairman of Great Universal Stores Limited. His trust was created in 1955, mainly for the advancement of health and education in the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth.—China Mail Special.

DEATH LIFEBOAT BURNT

Edinburgh, Mar. 20. To superstitious fishermen of Broughty Ferry the lifeboat Mona was bad luck. Eight good men had died in her.

So one gray dawn last week the Mona was ceremonially burnt—a kind of offering to the dead fishermen—and a silent knot of fishermen watched bareheaded as the flames consumed her.

To some canny Scots the ritual burning of the Mona seemed a waste of money. Now it will become a Parliamentary issue.

The Mona capsized with all hands in a gale last November. Fighting her way home from an SOS call, she was caught by huge waves and flung onto a sandbar at the mouth of the river Tay.

Eight men aboard, trapped in the cockpit, died, as the Mona bowed over and over in the waves.

SNAPPED MAST

But the lifeboat survived, washed ashore with little more damage than a snapped mast.

Last Sunday the Royal National Lifeboat Institution admitted it had authorised the burning of the Mona "out of respect for the men who died in her."

An official said: "She could have been used for another purpose, but there is something hallowed about the hull. It would have been a pity to have put it to commercial use."

The Mona cost £8,000 to build in 1935. It would cost many times that to replace her now.

Scots member of Parliament, Mr. Arthur Woodburn, said he will ask the Transport Minister Mr. Ernest Marples, why the Mona was destroyed.—AP.

Fireworks for De Gaulle

The French couple arrive at Gatwick Airport on the morning of April 5 and will be met there by the Duchess of Kent.

The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and other members of the Royal Family will greet the President as he steps from a special train at Victoria station, on arrival from Gatwick.—China Mail Special.

Today's

bride has a double life

Her wedding dress won't end up as an heirloom

by JILL BUTTERFIELD

PICTURES BY ALAN BOYD

Convertible bridal dress by Susan Small, Headdress by Melles. Children's dresses from Horrocks Pirouette Collection, Headdresses by Jenny Fischer.

ONCE weddings went with June, moon, spoon—now March has become the month of marriages, for a mainly mercenary reason. You get a year's tax rebate in one lump sum.

But whether they marry in March for money, in June for romance, or in the cold grey of November for love, 75 per cent of this country's brides marry in church.

And that means a big boost in the white wedding.

The changes

With one eye on the wedding of the year and a backglance to the wedding of the century when Princess Elizabeth married Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten, here are the fashion changes that have occurred at the church door.

THEN it was customary for a retinue of grown-up bridesmaids to follow her up the aisle. NOW the most popular sound in the aisles of England is the patter of tiny, white-clad feet. Child attendants have come into their own.

THEN the most popular bridal fabrics were rich brocades, stiff satins and velvets. NOW the bride can go to the altar in anything from Terylene to towelling. The coming fabric, I'm told, is cotton-crisp pique, baby-line voile, or sheer organdie.

THEN the wedding dress seldom had a place in life afterwards.

NOW brides look for dresses which are informal enough to wear immediately afterwards, which will convert into evening dresses with a minimum of fuss. London couturier Victor Stiebel, who makes the majority of Princess Margaret's state dresses and who is the man I'm tipping to make THE dress, told me: "Today's wedding dresses are much less like fancy dresses."

I think the movement started when the train went out. "I think a wedding dress should be really romantic. It's the one moment in a girl's life when she can go all out for a purely pretty look."

Light, breezy

"Bridal fabrics have changed considerably over the last few years. I now think of wedding dresses in terms of light, breezy fabrics."

I asked him what most of the fashionable brides he dressed wore as headresses. "The flara has had a pretty long innings. There's now a terrific reversion to little ribbon headresses, to coronets of flowers."

In view of the evidence, I don't think I'm sticking my neck out too far when I say the dress in the picture Mrs Armstrong-Jones will stick in her album will look a little like the one on the left.

MYTHS
TO END...

1: CHEAP
IS TATTY

THERE is still too much humbug connected with fashion. There are still too many people living by out-of-date myths. Fashion Page promises to examine the clichés too many people dress by and report, without hokey, its verdict.

This week: the exploding of the myth No. 1—that to buy cheap means to buy tatty.

My verdict: in 1960 false, false, false. Proving the point—shoes, bag, and underwear, all with that rich-girl look at a working girl's price.

WAIST LENGTH drip-dry petticoat covered with a layer of flower-printed nylon. Luxury touches: lace-trimmed hem, side slits, ribbon bows.

COUNTRY-MINDED bag big enough to take a modest amount of shopping is made of polished wood. Luxury touches: the real leather handle and lid, the brass studs.

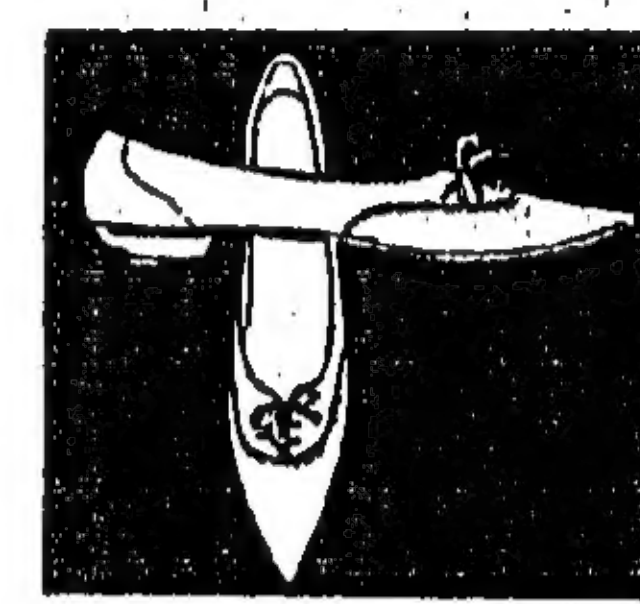

GLOVE-SOFT shoe of fine, fine leather. Luxury touch: the pointed toes, little curved heel of polished wood. Colours, creamy white, tan and black.

PARIS: THE TOP TOUCHES

PICTURE BY FRED BROMMET

● Paris was pretty, Paris was feminine, Paris, let's face it, was ladylike this year. Hats at Cardin were high, double-crowned. Givenchy showed globular space helmets plonked on flower pots and little round nonsense which cling to the side of the head like sea urchins. Goma's hats were as young as his collection—a miniature tribly trimmed with lilies, and this little spotted plume cap, perched high on the forehead. This adaptation, by Edward Munn, is already in the shops, in London.

COLOURS FOR COOLER KITCHENS

New York. A new colour scheme can make the kitchen seem degrees cooler on hot summer days. Only about US$10 worth of paint is needed to cover the average room. Use an odourless semi-gloss or gloss paint. This kind dries quickly, will not interfere with cooking when first applied, and will retain its fresh look after countless washings. Before painting, wash dirt and grease from the walls and woodwork. Remove loose or cracked paint with a wire brush or sandpaper, and sand down any glossy surfaces so the new coat will adhere better. Experts agree that the coolest colours include most shades of green, turquoise, light blue, grey-blue and green-blue. If warm colours are essential to your happiness, add them by means of the curtains.

★ ★ ★ These are suggested as pleasant combinations for a cool kitchen: —Ice-blue walls; chartreuse floor; medium-blue counters; white or blue cabinets; chartreuse curtains; orange accents. —Sea-green walls; turquoise floor; champagne counters and cabinets; deep green, yellow and white curtains; raspberry red accents. —Pale turquoise walls; deep turquoise floor; natural wood or ivory cabinets; pale melon counters; melon and ivory curtains. —Soft green walls; medium green; yellow and white pattern floor; soft green cabinets; deep blue counters; green, blue and yellow curtains; yellow accents.

Fighting Goldfish

—Hanid Wants To Know Why They Are Quarreling—

By MAX TRELL

HANID, the Shadow Girl with the Turned-About Name, came into the room and noticed at once that something was wrong. What was wrong was this: Alphonse and Suzanne were fighting! Hanid immediately ran up to the aquarium and shook her finger in front of the glass. "Alphonse!" she said sternly to the large red goldfish. "Behave yourself!"

But Alphonse, I am sorry to say, paid no attention to Hanid at all. He went right on trying to bite Suzanne's nose. As for Suzanne, who was coloured silver and red like a beautiful piece of calico cut in the shape of a fish, she kept pushing Alphonse around. "Stop it both of you! Stop it!" Hanid shouted with her hand close up to the glass. It was no use. The two Goldfish didn't even seem to hear her.

Silk ribbon

Then Hanid remembered! She darted across the room, pushed a chair away, reached behind the drape and took the bit of silk ribbon that hung on a tiny nail that no one else in the house knew of. She wound the ribbon around her little finger on her left hand and darted back to the aquarium. "Alphonse! Suzanne! Can you hear me now?" she asked. And this time the two Goldfish instantly stopped fighting. They stood looking at Hanid through their side—the inside—of the front glass. "Yes, we can," they can hear you," Alphonse said. "Yes, dear, we can," Suzanne added. Their mouths opened and shut as they spoke. Hanid nodded.

"I'm glad you can hear me," she said, speaking slowly and plainly, "because I want you to know that you aren't behaving yourselves very nicely this morning." "No," said the two Goldfish together, opening and shutting their mouths at exactly the same time. "Why are you fighting?" Hanid asked. "He—" began Suzanne. "She—" began Alphonse. Hanid held up her hand. "One at a time, please. Ladies first. You begin, Suzanne," she said.

"Alphonse won't let me swim on his side of the aquarium," Suzanne said. "He says I tear up the plants. He says I stir up the pebbles. He says I steal his food." "He won't let me swim on his side but he isn't going to stop me! No! I'm going to push him away. I'm going to—!" "All right, that's enough, Suzanne," said Hanid. "Now what have you got to say for yourself, Alphonse?"

"Well," said Alphonse, and Hanid noticed that he didn't sound nearly as angry as Suzanne. "I don't really mind her swimming on my side of the aquarium. But what I say is that if she can swim on any side of the aquarium then she's got to let me swim on her side, whenever I feel like doing it." Sounds fair

Alphonse was angrily arguing with Suzanne.

"But of course," she added with a twinkle, "neither of you is allowed to swim on the 'outside'!" "Oh, we know that all right!" said Suzanne. Hanid unwound the ribbon from her finger and hung it back in its secret place behind the drape. When she looked at the aquarium again, she was pleased to see Alphonse and Suzanne swimming together side by side on all sides of the inside!

Rupert and the Windies—33

Golly takes Rupert up to the reinder, which stops shivering as it sees a familiar face. "I was going to take him back to Santa Claus," says Golly, "but now you're here everything's easier. I'll take my plane and finish the work while you ride him." "Rupert," said Golly, "I can't even ride a reindeer." "Not even I?" says Golly briskly. "I'll tell him what to do and you can explain to Santa Claus what has happened." He holds Rupert up, whispers to the animal, and off it goes.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

WOULD you double four spades if you held the East cards? Sure you would! Would you set it? Maybe so but this East didn't.

West opened the ace of clubs and continued the suit. Dummy's king won the trick and the four of trumps was led. East played the eight and South the ten and from this point on there was no defence to beat the hand.

South led a heart. West rose with the ace and led a fourth club. Dummy ruffed with the six. East overruled with the six. East overruled with the nine and South with the ace.

Three rounds of diamonds came next with dummy ruffing the third lead with the deuce of trumps.

Two rounds of hearts followed. South discarded a diamond and on the third heart lead overruled East's jack of trumps with the king. Now he led his last diamond and ruffed with dummy's seven. East overruled but South's five of trumps was now good for the contract trick.

How could East have set the hand? He could have played the three on the first trump lead. South could still have won the hand by playing the five spot but I wonder if he would have?

Busmen win as they like against soldiers without life, spirit or a playing plan

By I. M. MacTAVISH

In wartime Britain there was a popular slogan which asked the pertinent question "Is your journey really necessary?" The phrase was absorbed into the everyday language of the people and Hongkong football followers could have used it with great effect at the Boundary Street ground yesterday afternoon when some 7,000 fans had made the trip and sat patiently through the dull first division game of the season in which KMB won as they liked in beating the Army by three goals to nil.

This was just about the drabest soccer encounter I have had to watch in ages.

It went a long way towards explaining the Army's present precarious position in the league and it also reminded us of the deterioration which has come over the once fine KMB side.

The soldiers offered only the most nominal opposition. They had Wright and Higginbottom and almost nothing more.

They were woefully weak in the vital wing-half positions where Masterton never found his form, while Mackin, who looked competent enough in possession, was caught far too often out of position and his repeated failure to retreat after losing the ball threw a tremendous load onto Higginbottom. The tall left-back struggled gamely to meet the double task but the third goal was a clear indication of the shortcomings of the situation.

Biggest worries

Pivot Bagley made two early mistakes. One cost his side a vital goal and he never really recovered his confidence. He found Lau Kai-chu a tough handful and the afternoon's honours were very much in favour of the KMB centre-forward.

The Army's biggest worries, however, were up in their bunched-up front rank where both individually and collectively—to use the term in its loosest sense—the only thing the forwards hit was rockbottom. Bellamy, from whom so much was expected, was the biggest offender of all. Every time the ball reached him the movement came to a dead stop. He fiddled around when the pattern of the game literally screamed for a few intelligent first-line passes and a few sweeping changes of direction.

The little inside-left persistently ran round in circles until he finally lost the ball. . . . he got "absolutely no mark whatsoever for his irresponsible late back-heel kick at Leung Kit. It escaped the attention of the referee who was watching the flight of the ball but it did not pass unnoticed by the spectators in the stands.

Of the others only Todd looked anything like a profitable footballer. Duffy had an atrocious game, Johns was sadly out of position. . . . and, although Baldwin was officially listed as centre-forward, he played the "idee fixe" plan to such purpose that he spent more time among his own half-backs than he did as an attacker. Lau Tim has never had an easier afternoon.

No great shakes

Although the busmen were streets ahead of the strangely listless and lifeless soldiers they were still no great shakes. Nowadays the side is little more than a hollow shadow of the great KMB teams of recent years.

The present players have neither the polish nor the poise of their predecessors of days gone by and the great lack of the bright, yet cultured, approach to the game which made them one of the most popular clubs in Colony football.

Wai Fat-kin had a quiet afternoon but he had one very good save late in the game when Duffy got a point-blank chance. Law Pak, Lau Tim and Leung Kit were the outstanding members of the busmen's defence but up front only Lau Kai-chu, and to a lesser degree, Chow Shiu-hung meant very much. Lam Kam-long was still a long way from match fitness and watching him in action yesterday it seemed a great risk had been taken in playing him so soon.

On the right wing Kwan King-sun—in spite of a fine goal—was no more than a stopgap and speedily Lau Man-wai looked very uncomfortable on the opposite wing. He kept trying to get the ball to his right foot when it would have been so much more profitable to have played it with his left.

There were just over 7,000 fans in the stands when in the dull, dismal, overcast afternoon the Army launched the last attack towards the clubhouse goal.

First mistake

They were repelled and in the third minute Bagley made his first mistake. Lau Kai-chu took advantage of the situation and slipped the ball neatly past Wright but Bagley made a good recovery and kicked the ball off the goal line.

Both defences were very shaky. When Chow Shiu-hung had a chance for KMB, Higginbottom again covered up well to clear off the goal line for the second time in five minutes.

With nine minutes gone KMB were very correctly awarded a penalty-kick. Lam Kam-long drove the ball low and hard to the right of the Army goalkeeper but with a dive and a twist Wright somehow collared the ball, lost it, retrieved it, and cleared it to safety. A fine piece of goalkeeping which was loudly applauded.

When the game was just a quarter of an hour old KMB took the lead. The goal followed a mounting succession of blunders among the Army defenders. In the end Bagley failed to get in the tackle and Chow Shiu-hung had a easy job to tuck the ball away in the corner of the net.

The remainder of the first half was one long succession of disconnected incidents. Lau Man-wai was injured in a thoughtless tackle by Masterton. Lam Kam-long collapsed when there was no one near him and he went off for running repairs. Ritchie kicked the ball off the Army goal line for the third time in the game. Todd had one long shot which carried just over the bar. Kwan King-sun hit the right-hand post and Lau Man-wai hit the opposite post from the rebound and finally, Lam Kam-long hit a neat drive just inches outside the Army goal.

Tragedy for Army

The second half opened with a tragedy for the Army. Masterton watched a high lob drop out of the air. . . . he took his eye off it to look at his opponent and inevitably misjudged the ball. Faster than he could recover Lau Kai-chu got possession, hustled through the defence and before you could say "Masterton muffed it," Lau had the ball in the net.

With a two goals lead KMB set off but Kwan King-sun found the chance to smack one shot against the Army post. . . . and then in the 28th minute the winger—taking advantage of a Mackin excursion—beat Wright all ends up with a great shot.

Baldwin was badly injured in a rather unnecessary clash with Wai Fat-kin and Lau Tim. He was off the field for ten minutes. The game dragged on to a pitiful finish. The light was very bad and some of the closing efforts of the players were mercifully shrouded in the gathering gloom. . . . the final whistle was welcomed with relief.

VERDICT: Maybe we can take some strange consolation from the fact that our football cannot deteriorate much further than this. KMB won easily and yet they were no better than third rate. . . . but this was surely the poorest display by an Army side in the post-war years. One final thought—a $15,000 rate, yet there was no new ball for the game!

The teams

KMB: Wai Fat-kin, Law Pak, Chan Kwok-lam, Lau Kit, Lau Tim, Kwan King-sun, Kwan King-sun, Chow Shiu-hung, Lau Kai-chu, Lam Kam-long, Lau Man-wai.

VILLA MAY GIVE WOLVES A CUP SHOCK

American soccer idea is great

After our defeat by Aston Villa some are saying "poor old Tom Finney" has missed his last chance of gaining a Cup winner's medal and that he will probably retire this summer.

Very interesting — except that I have no intention of retiring at the moment — and I cannot even anticipate the year in which I will retire.

I hope to play football as long as I am fit and can still enjoy the game. At present both these conditions apply — despite what happened at Villa Park.

Slime chance

Next month I will be 38, and obviously my chances of collecting a Cup winner's medal are more slender than when I entered top class football 20 years ago.

I recall, though, that in 1953 a chap called Stanley Matthews won a Cup medal after surviving I don't know how many "last chances."

How old was Matthews?—38.

My Cup choice

Who is going to win the FA Cup? Wolves, one of my original choices, certainly seem ahead and with their great striking power they will take some stopping.

But I can tell Wolves that they will be hard pressed to get through that Villa defence. Three years ago a tough defence, plus opportunity in attack, took Villa to Wembley and to victory over Manchester United.

I rate this present side as slightly superior to that Cup-winning combination.

Dour defence

The backbone is again a dour defence which, in 33 League games this season, has conceded only 28 goals — the best record in the entire League. And they use the cover-back system and you scarcely get a look at their goal.

These tactics are by no means solely negative. Indeed, that highly-praised Barcelona team is built on a solid defence. So are Real Madrid and most of the other great "attacking sides" in football.

The idea is that the team stages strategic withdrawals in the face of attack, falling back and all the time covering up. Then — like a compressed spring — they recoil into attack, often catching the opposition out of position.

Match-winner

In Irish international left-winger Peter McParland, Villa have one of the game's greatest match-winners, a player ideally suited to these tactics. With those devastating long runs, he can lie back, pick up the ball in his own half, and set off on a 70-yard dash.

Sheffield Wednesday have also used the tunnel defence system and winners the strike fast with great success, climbing from 17th to fourth place in the First Division and reaching the Cup semi-finals.

With a goals-against total of 38, Wednesday have the best defence record in the First Division.

They also have one of the best "buys" of the season in Bobby Craig, their Scottish inside-right. A hard-working little man, of the Bobby Collins mould, Craig has done a tremendous job in filling the vacancy left by the departure of £45,000 Albert Quixall to Manchester United.

In two months' time, wealthy ex-baseball boss William D. Cox will be gambling a small fortune on a bold soccer experiment — the staging of a world club tournament in New York between crack teams from Britain and the Continent.

Yankee revival?

Other commitments prevent me from taking part (I had hoped to appear as a guest player for the New York side) but I shall still be taking a special interest in this tournament. It should give a fair indication of whether the Americans can ever hope to make the grade in world soccer.

Real Madrid will unfortunately be missing the New York soccer jamboree. However, enough talent will be on view with teams like Real Saragossa, Yugoslavia, Viers F. C. of Austria, leading French clubs — and, of course, First Division Burnley, who should prove a

Seamus Elliott finishes second in Nice-Genoa cycle race

Genoa, Mar. 20. Ireland's Seamus Elliott today put up his best performance since he came to the continent to take part in major cycling events several years ago, finishing second in the yearly Nice-Genoa race.

Winner was Jean Stablinsky, from France, who covered the 210 kms in 5 hours 12 mins 11 secs at an average speed of 39.8 kms per hour (24.9 mph).

Stablinsky and Elliott who had kept a close watch on the leaders throughout the race took off by themselves in the last miles and reached the Genoa cycle track well ahead of anyone. In the final sprint, Stablinsky broke away and finished 25 seconds ahead of Elliott.

Third was France's Henry Anglade, 45 seconds behind the winner. England's Brian Robinson was 11th, 1 min 44 secs behind the winner. Forty-six riders finished the race.—A.P.

OFF THE CUFF

I hear that Jackie Charlton, Leeds' transfer-listed centre-half, may join younger brother Bobby at Manchester United. But United will probably have to beat Middlesbrough for Jackie's signature.

Cheyennes become new senior softball champions

By OLLY VAS

Congratulations go to Robert Remedios and his Cheyennes who won the Senior League softball championship yesterday when their opponents, Saint Joseph's, failed to put in an appearance.

This followed immediately on the heels of an earlier forfeit in the ladies' section when the Cheyennes conceded a walkover to the Matadors in the morning game.

However, to make up for these walkovers, two Junior matches were played off in the afternoon. In the Giants versus New Asia College affair, won by the former 10-4, the Giants' Bosco Osorio won the batting title when he registered two hits in three trips to the batter's box while the Cheyennes edged out the Cardinals 3-1 in a game highlighted by the two pitchers' fine performances. Reggie Hamet tossed a no-hit game for the Cheyennes while his opposite number Lal Dayaram, though not so lucky, was by no means disgraced in giving up only three hits.

Both sides were out in quick order in the first inning and in the second, the Cardinals jumped to an early lead. In the bottom half of this inning lead-off batter Carlinho Viera got on first via an infield error then stole second and via another infield fumble crossed the plate for the Cardinals' first and only run of the game.

It was a short-lived lead for in the top of the third inning the Cheyennes were back in the game, the tying run coming in on a fielder's choice. Eric Remedios and then David Ullman banged out consecutive hits to score another pair of runs and it was now 3-1.

That was the way it stayed till the end of the game for with both pitchers Hamet and Dayaram in fine fettle the sides were retired in 1-2-3 fashion, batter after batter going down without any alteration to the scoreboard.

Full value

Hamet kept his pitches low and the Cards kept using hockey strokes with the inevitable result. The ball popped up and the Cheyenne fielders had an easy time. Some poor base-running cost the Cards a few potential runs for on no fewer than four occasions with a man on second base and one away the runner took off too soon after an infield hit and found an opposing infielder waiting with ball in glove for the tag.

On the other hand the Cheyennes were full value for their victory because they played a steadier brand of softball and those three hits in the third were all they needed to bring in the runs and so ensure victory.

There isn't much action from the third inning onwards as both Hamet and Dayaram continued to have control over the opposing batters. A somewhat disappointing match from the Cardinal's point of view, they have played worse before — and won the game. In any case I am glad the Junior league did not end on a sour note and that it was persistent tries Reggie Hamet who finally succeeded in recording a no-hit.

Teenager fined on driving charge

A 16-year-old boy was this morning fined a total of $300 by Mr. I. T. Morris at Central Court when he pleaded guilty to charges of driving without a licence, driving without the owner's consent and without third party insurance.

Cheung Kam-wing, 29, of 95 Wanchai Road, pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting the boy and was fined $150 by Mr. Morris.

Inspector M. R. Atkinson, prosecuting, said the offences were committed at the junction of Staunton Street and Old Bailey Street on March 15.

Mr. C. H. Wong, of P. C. Woo and Co., representing both defendants, said that the car belonged to the boy's father and that defendant was trying to reverse the car but because of the steep incline it went forward instead.

Gateman caught pickpocket

A Kowloon Motor Bus Company gateman, Fung King, was complimented by Judge A. A. Huggins at Kowloon District Court this morning for arresting a pickpocket on board his vehicle.

Judge Huggins said: "You have performed a public service, Sir, in your arrest of this man. We are grateful to you."

The thief was Liu Tak 36, who was seen extracting a fountain-pen from the shirt pocket of his victim as the two were boarding the bus in Shamshui on March 4.

Chief Inspector T. W. Wheeler disclosed that Liu Tak had five previous convictions for similar offences since 1950.

Liu was given three years and placed under police supervision for two years.

Man with polio gets £2,000 wife damages

London, March 19.

FOR six months 35-year-old Anthony Warren lay in a hospital bed, stricken with polio. And while he was there, a Divorce Court judge said the other day, his young wife was being seduced by his friend.

The wife, 28-year-old Mrs Dorothy Mary Warren, mother of two, did not defend a petition by her husband for a decree of divorce, seeking a decree because of her misconduct.

The friend, 40-year-old Ramsay solicitor Stuart Lechmere Macaskie, a married man, was ordered to pay £2,000 damages to Mr. Warren, whom he met four years ago.

'NOT TOO LARGE'

Mr Justice Phillimore said: "The co-respondent, a professional man, and a friend of the husband, seduced this wife while her husband was in hospital suffering from polio. I think £2,000 is not too large a sum in the circumstances."

Mr Warren, unsteady on his feet, who lives in Park Road, Ramsgate, married his wife in October 1952, when she was 19. They have two sons, Mark, aged six, and Gerard, four, who are living with Mr Warren. He contracted polio in November 1957, and remained in hospital until the following May.

He and his wife parted soon after his return home to convalesce. When he taxed Mr Macaskie with associating with his wife he denied it. Of Mr. Macaskie, the judge said: "He was warned to discontinue the association, and he has persisted. It is quite plain he is much older than the wife."

HIS LIFE

Of Mr Warren, he added: "He is left with two small boys to care for while his wife, who should be looking after them, is not at home."

He granted Mr Warren a decree nisi because of his wife's misconduct with Mr Macaskie, who was ordered to pay the costs of the action. He was given 14 days in which to pay the £2,000 agreed damages.—London Express Service.

Don Iddon expects Jack Kennedy to be the next president of the United States; the way he emphasizes Kennedy's political glamour also implies how little he thinks of the discernment of the American public. N. T. CHOW.

Illegal taxis

Yes Sir, you hit the nail right on the head — take off the restrictions on taxi licences and let the laws of supply and demand rule. There, there — perhaps that is also a sure way of getting rid of this persistent talk about corruption and such like huh? ANTON K. K. MAK.

Corruption

I have sent the following letter to the Hon. Mr. Ngan Shing-kan which I would be grateful if you would publish. C. N. S. BURNS.

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted to refer to the final paragraph of your Budget Speech.

If, as you state, that it is your desire and the desire of the Unofficial Members, to suppress the evil practice of corruption in this Colony, may I respectfully suggest that you combine with your fellow Members and, as a body, press the Governor to order the impartial commission of inquiry so urgently required but so dishearteningly rejected by the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

As a correspondent in the "China Mail" of March 18 points out: "British Civil Service should not only be above suspicion but should be manifestly shown to be so."

And again: "The ugly rumours are not likely to be killed by the statement that the Governor does not attach as much importance to the newspaper editorial as does a member of Parliament." I sincerely trust that you mean what you say and will act in conjunction with your fellow Members accordingly. C. N. S. BURNS.

If the bus company's best means the above schedule and is said to be satisfactory, then we are jolly glad to have a representative in the Legislative Council in the person of Col. Clague who at least is better informed of the real situation than the gentleman who is running the buses.

Ed Murrow

"Hardly" to believe that the kindly faced man (Ed Murrow) has caused more controversy by his fearless commentaries than most political leaders cause in a lifetime. Is kindness so antithetical to fearlessness, Mr. Duncanson? N. T. CHOW.

Enthralled by the Far East

The first sight of the Far East has been the highlight of a colourful career for a 56-year-old author and journalist.

He is well known American writer and columnist Cameron Shipp of Los Angeles.

Mr Shipp who specialises in biographies has written five American best sellers. He recently had published a book called "Steps in Time" which is a biography of Fred Astaire. Mr Shipp who arrived on the Iberia last Friday said

"I must say that has been the highlight of my entire career or life for that matter."

"I was absolutely startled when I got my first glance of the East in Tokyo."

"In both Tokyo and Hongkong I have been amazed at the vigour with which people undertake their work."

MR SHIPP.

"There is no doubt that the focus of the world is becoming more and more concentrated on the Far East," he added.

Mr Shipp will stay in Hongkong for about 10 days before starting back for the United States.

AIM TO BUILD RACE CIRCUIT 'SOMEWHERE IN THE ORIENT'

A Bangkok businessman, who passed through Hongkong this morning, is searching the Orient for a site to build a world class motor racing track.

He is Mr P. C. Simpson who arrived with his wife in transit by Air India, to Tokyo.

Mr Simpson who owns a sleek Mercedes sports car is a keen motor racing enthusiast and has attended the major racing rallies of the world.

"People in the Orient are as keen on motor cars as anywhere else in the world," Mr Simpson said.

"I think there would be a big business in motor racing in the East."

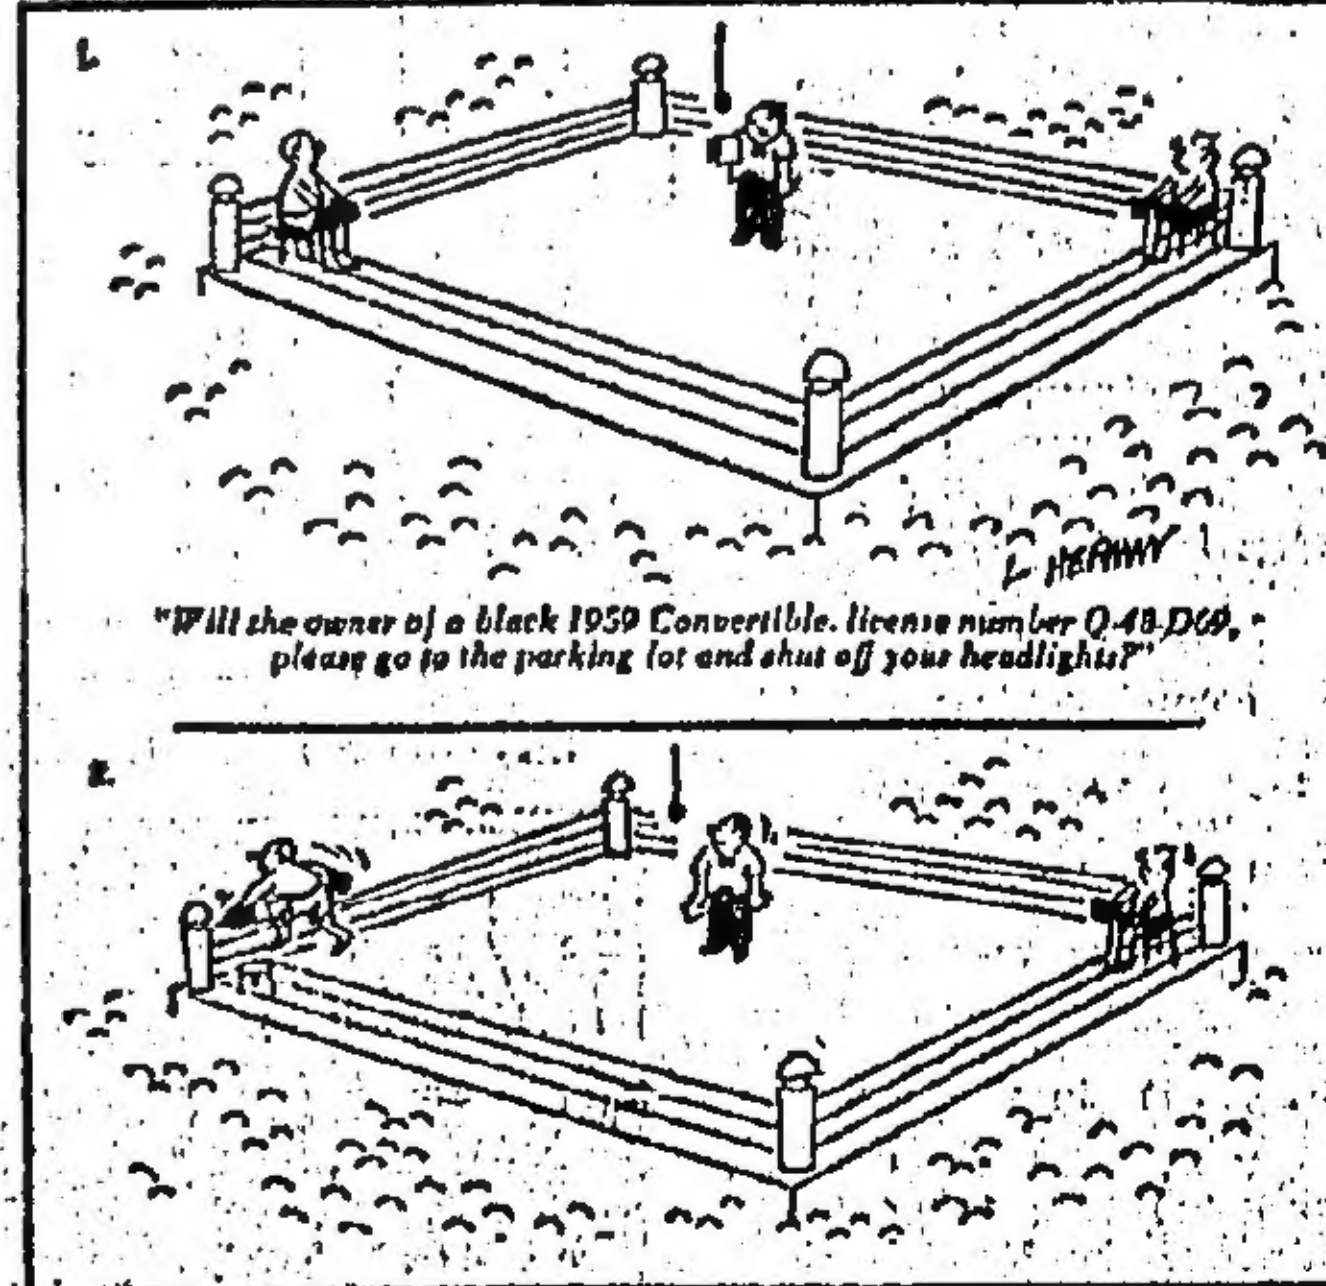

"At present because of the population and area Tokyo would be the favourite."

"But if anything worthwhile presented itself in Hongkong I would jump at the chance."

"I have heard that the Macao Grand Prix causes a sensation in Hongkong so that's a good measure to the people's enthusiasm," he added.

Mr Simpson who represents several Bangkok and American businessmen said that the racing track would be a standard size world class stadium and would seat about 80,000.

25 years AGO

March, 1935

LADY Peel, wife of His Excellency Sir William Peel, Governor of Hongkong, will have her name commemorated in the Colony with the completion of a health centre in the heart of the residential district in Wanchai.

The building is to be known as "The Violet Peel Health Centre."

It is at present in course of construction.

It will be dedicated mainly to infantile welfare, though it is expected that its sphere of work will be widened later.

It is estimated that the total cost of the structure will be in the vicinity of $40,000. Messrs Chan and Lee are the architects and Messrs Sung Lee and Co the contractors.

Under bold black headlines, the SCMP Post reported: "Versailles Treaty Torn Up," and under it "Germany drops a bombshell."

The news read: "At a time when acceptable guarantees of peace in Europe were hoped for, a sudden crisis has arisen."

"Germany announces that she denounces the treaty of Versailles and will introduce a new constitution. The action is ostensibly provoked by the announcement of further French defence measures but actually it is believed that the French plans are but part of the excuse."

"France is excited at Germany's action and the other powers are most concerned."

"The German announcement may affect the proposed visit of Sir John Simon and Captain Anthony Eden to Berlin and Moscow."

TWO hours after he had been overcome by gas fumes from a defective heater, a member of John F. Campbell's family in Salt Lake City, Utah, found him apparently lifeless.

A police inhibitor squad worked on him for an hour. When he began to regain consciousness, he murmured "All right, Dad, I'll do it." Then: "Where has the breeze gone?"

Later, when fully recovered, Campbell, 41, described a "stern field of wonderful peace, where a warm breeze was blowing" and said: "My father talked to me and gave me a stern lecture on some of the things I'd done. There were a lot of people there and I saw Roland and Bob; but Dad wouldn't let me talk to them. He told me I had things to do and I'd better get back quick."

"Roland" and "Bob," both friends of Campbell, are dead.

Commented that wise old observer "Argus": "An American paper finds it necessary to explain to its readers that the word 'stern' in German is neither a childhood disease nor a disgraceful occupation."
